

God is love.

Whoever lives in love lives in God, and God in him.
(1 John 4:16)

Look at the birds of the air; they do not sow or reap or store away in barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not much more valuable than they? ... And why do you worry about clothes? See how the lilies of the field grow. ... If that is how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today and tomorrow is thrown into the fire, will he not much more clothe you, O you of little faith?
(Matthew 6:26-30)

Love each other as I have loved you. Greater love has no one than this, that he lay down his life for his friends.
(John 15:12-13)

The whole concern of doctrine and its teaching must be directed to the love that never ends. Whether something is proposed for belief, for hope or for action, the love of our Lord must always be made accessible, so that anyone can see that all the works of perfect Christian virtue spring from love and have no other objective than to arrive at love.
(Roman Catechism, Council of Trent, 1545-1563, Preface 10).
